

PETER SMITH RETIRES

Following a 50 year career in planning, of which the last 15 were with Weston Consulting, Peter Smith has announced his retirement.

After graduating from the University of Liverpool in 1962, Peter worked for municipal government in England. Since moving to Canada in 1966, Peter has worked on a wide range of urban planning and development activities with firms such as M.M. Dillon Limited, Proctor and Redfern Limited and UMA Group Limited.

Peter is well known and respected in the planning industry through his activities with various professional affiliations such as O.P.P.I. and B.I.L.D. and his experiences as an expert witness at many Ontario Municipal Board hearings.

Weston Consulting celebrated Peter's career at the Alta Rossa Ristorante in Vaughan, during which he was thanked for his services to the planning industry and for his support and guidance to many staff, past and present.

Although 'semi-retired', Peter will remain in planning for the immediate future, operating as an independent contractor in order to complete work currently in progress with his existing clients.

We wish Peter a happy retirement (when he finally decides to stop working!).
